HISTORIC FORMER HAMILTON HOTEL
LAUNCHES
NOSTALGIA-FUELLED CONTEST

Hamilton's Residences of the Royal Connaught was an iconic hotel for 90 years. Now in the midst of condominium redevelopment, the historic site is asking the public to get nostalgic. The Memories of the Royal Connaught contest invites Canadians to share stories and photos of the place via email and social media. A panel will decide the winner, who will receive a three-course dinner party for 20 catered by Hamilton's top chefs. "It was the biggest deal, the Royal Connaught was the only place to go," recalls businessman and judge Ron Foxcroft. "You had to get really dressed up. I remember when I was five, my parents saved their money all year so they could take us to the Royal Connaught for Christmas dinner." Deadline is July 4 at 2 p.m. For more information, royalconnaught.com. National Post
